Luc Leandron

Once upon a time there was a little Boy who wore colourful checked dungarees and a yellow cap with a black pompom on his head, they called him Luc Leandron.

Luc Leandron was very impatient, always was arguing for nothing going on, full of sometimes unrestrained energy, blessed with the most beautiful smile in the world, with an overflowing heart warming argument, because every quarrel always made him money, even though he wasn't the wealthiest, and all that , because he could express himself very well, so that he always won at the end of an argument..

One day there was an accident that cost the lives of many people. Luc Leandron went in search of the reason to find out what had happened.

He went door to door, asking to speak to anyone willing to argue with him for money.

 But since everyone feared his wits, they dared not enter into an argument with him.

Little Luc Leandron soon realized that he would not find anyone who could take a foot, if not a toe, from him. That would be enough for this conversation.

What now he asked himself, solali-solala, he set out to explore other countries, where he might, thanks to God's blessing, find friends for whom there was one Arguing about the whole basis of life, a valuable life full of joy, love, friendship and of course a lot of wealth, that he would stay with them.
🖤 🖤